Rep. Priest Asks Biddle to Clarify Maloney Position

Washington— Rep. J. Percy Priest (D-Tenn) has asked Attorney General Biddle to clear up the so-called 'authoritative" reports that congressional pressure forced the ace prosecutor, William Power Maloney, out of the Nazi network conspiracy trial.

Maloney and his staff conducted the grand jury inquiries which brought indictment of 34 alleged conspirators on charges of plotting, with a German official, to stir up mutiny in the American armed forces. Congressional contacts of some of the alleged conspirators have been demanding his scalp for months, in speeches and letters which are widely circulated by the defendants.

Announcement last week of Maloney's promotion to be criminal trial chief of the Department of Justice was accompanied by reports that the promotion was no honor, but a device to get him out of the Nazi case in favor of a prosecutor who would pull his punches when he came to evidence that linked the alleged plotters with certain Senators and Congressmen. "These reports are too wide-spread to be ignored," Representative Priest wrote the Attorney General, and, "unless cleared up certainly will place a stigma on the Congress as well as the Department of Justice".

Representative Priest said in his letter that he could not "believe that the department would in any way be even remotely a part" of such an understanding.

"In these reports the two disturbing and distasteful words, 'deal' and 'appeasement' are both written and spoken in such a way as to reflect no credit on the Department of Justice or on members of Congress."

San Diego's Growth Reflected In Augmented Revenue Staff

Continued growth and importance of San Diego County was given recognition last week when the local branch of the office of Collector of Revenue was designated a Revenue Division with a greatly augmented staff of employees and authority to open its own branches.

Moving from the New Post Offfice Building into much larger ground floor quarters in the San Diego Customs Building at Union & F Streets, the San Diego Division is now equipped to give every service previously given by the main office in Los Angeles. It is no longer necessary to write to Los Angeles for information, rulings, opinions or decisions. All revenue stamps may be purchased and taxes may be paid in cash as well as by personal check.

Deputy Collector Robert E. Andre, a veteran of 20 years in the revenue service in this county, has been named Division Chief. When, as, and if Chief Andre determines that other cities in the county need their own branches he will open them. Previously all such branches, zones and sub-zones were under the direct control of Los Angeles.

Andre's first statement after taking the reins of his new office was a warning that no matter what Congress does about the enactment of a "pay as you go tax" bill, 1942 income returns will be required not later than March 15, and at least 25% of the tax due must be paid by that date.

Delinquent Tax List Should Have Wider Publicity

That the delinquent Tax List should have wider publicity in various counties of the State, was the unanimous opinion of the members of our Association as expressed by them at our annual business session on December 10, 1942.

AB 151, AB 299 and AB 673 (identical bills) have been introduced in the California Assembly which provide that the list shall be broken up into elementary school districts and published in a newspaper of general circulation in each such district, thus giving wider and more direct publicity and hence raising more revenue. The bills come up for final passage when the legislature reconvenes this month. (March).

NEW YORK— The Tokyo radio in a broadcast recorded by the federal communications commission reports that all workers in Japan henceforth will be subject to compulsory labor laws under the government's national mobilization plan.

The big industriral plants will not be taken over by the government, the broadcast said, but "the government intends to organize the responsible people and leaders in industries into one comprehensive structure. In order to realize this plan, any person who is wanted will be mobilized."

The Broom Sweeps Clean!

By C. Leon de Aryan

WASHINGTON—Fred, who is now the owner of The Broom, writes me that some subscribers are dropping out for fear The Broom might not continue to appear. While I am not a prophet who will swear that the Broom will never stop, I remember that 12 years ago, some people were afraid the paper might not continue to appear. But every week it has made its appearance.

One must realize why The Broom continues to appear.

It is not a commercial paper run for profit. It is a paper produced to KEEP FAITH. To keep faith in ourselves. To keep faith in God. To keep faith in the vision of the Founding Fathers when they produced this Republic. To keep faith in our constitution and the principles it represents in contrast to the old world and its lack of principles.

It is this faith which makes it our duty to keep The Broom sweeping and exposing all faithlessness.

I am doing my part, Fred is doing his part, a schoolboy yet, but game, the printer is doing his part by accepting the responsibilities of editorship on top of his own regular work, without extra pay. And you, the least you can do is to turn away from defeatism and take your chance on keeping the U. S. A. a Republic where a freedom-loving weekly paper has its part to perform.

Florida Court Outlaws Closed Shop

JACKSONVILLE— Circuit Judge Miles W. Lewis in Circuit Court here has ruled that a portion of a closed shop contract betwen the Moore Pipe Sprinkler Co. of Jacksonville and the American Federation of Labor was invalid and without authority and ordered the firm 'forthwith to cancel" the closed shop clause in the labor agreement.

The agreement "is void as contrary to public policy, in view of the emergency that confronts this Nation at the present time," Judge Lewis stated.

The company entered into a closed shop contract last spring with the Plumbers and Steamfitters local of the A. F. of L., and Attorney General Tom Watson instituted suit on behalf of the State asking that the contract be invalidated as a violation of the constitutional right of a laborer to free choice of employment. The A. F. of L. entered the case as in intervenor.

Evidence tended to show the Moore Co. signed the agreement only because it feared it would lose valuable Navy contracts on which it was a subcontractor, since the general contractors had an agreement that only A. F. of L. labor would be used.

Employes of the firm also testified they were not consulted, and some said they would not have joined the union if they could have kept their jobs otherwise.

One worker stated, however, that the union permitted him to continue on a Moore Co. job without becoming a member, refusing to admit him to membership because it had members out of work.

War Security Bill Seen As Boon To 'Snoopers'

WASHINGTON— Senator Kenneth S. Wherry (R), of Nebraska, has joined in denouncing the so-called "War Security Bill" now pending in the Senate as an unnecessarily stringent piece of legislation which would create a nation-wide Gestapo of snoopers.

Wherry was one of the two members of the Senate Judiciary Committee who voted against the bill when it was approved by the committee, 4 to 2, earlier last week. The measure is due to be reported to the Senate on Monday. (today)

Bill Called Dangerous

It would provide penalties up to death or life imprisonment for sommitting or attempting to commit what might be interpreted as "hostile acts" against the United States or her Allies with intent to aid an enemy. The bill, requested by the Justice Department, would also impose penalties of up to 10 years imprisonment, or $10,000 fine or both, for failure of anyone to inform the FBI about anyone suspected of committing a "hostile act" against the Government.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D) of Montana, a member of the Judiciary Committee, denounced the bill as "the most dangerous piece of legislation that has been presented for passage in the history of this country".

According to Wheeler, the legislation would give the FBI and the Department of Justice the power to intimidate and prosecute anyone on the slightest provocation. Also, it would cause neighbor to spy upon neighbor, and might cause persecution and prosecution of innocent citizens, he said.

Modern Gestapo Hinted

"This bill would set up a modern Gestapo in America," said Wherry. "While I want to help the FBI and the Government in getting at saboteurs and other enemies of the country, this bill would let down the bars. For Nebraska it's unnecessary. We have a great standard of citizenship."

About 35 per cent of the State's population is of German, Czechoslovakian and Swedish extraction, and have proved by their conduct to be 100 per cent American, but legislation of this sort might cause them to be persecuted by mere suspicions, he asserted. This was experienced in some degree during World War I, he recalled.

"As far as Nebraska is concerned, we feel no need for such a stringent law," Wherry commented. "I want to be helpful in the conduct of the war but this measure is too severe."

His statement was made in an interview in reply to requests for his reasons in opposing the bill in committee. The position he took in the committee will be maintained when the bill reaches the Senate floor, he said, unless much more satisfactory reasons are given for its necessity.

Roosevelts Sign for Rations; Not Required to Count Cans

WASHINGTON— Like millions of their fellow citizens, the President and Mrs. Rosevelt registered last week for their No. 2 ration books, but they did not have to reveal how much canned godos they had on hand.

A staff of five registrars from the Thompson School at Twelfth and L streets N.W., led by Miss J. E. Wiler, principal, went to the White House and issued 15 books to residents and members of the staff. Besides the President, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hopkins and Diana Hopkins received books.

The only "tailoring" that needed to be done was to remove the coffee stamps from Diana's No. 1 book because she is under 15 years of age. The entire transaction was conducted through a White House secretary.

None of the residents at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue N.W. declared the amount of canned goods on hand. It was explained that the White House is classed as an institution and the rations are handled by the area ration board on that basis. Thus, under OPA regulations, it was not necessary for individuals residing there to make declarations.

The White House secretary pointed out, however, that Mrs. Roosevelt's Ration Book No. 2 will be used when the President's wife stays at her New York apartment. The books issued at the White House also may be needed later for commodities other than food.

Teachers who accompanied Miss Wiler to the White House were H. L. Baker, Mrs. Katherine Graves, Mrs. O. G. Bennett and Miss Harriet Burdick.

Editor's Note— Although the teachers were working without compensation, and the trip to the White House gave them a little diversion from their ardent task, still as long as only one party at the White House, a secretary, did the signing, there would have been a saving someplace, if he had went to the school. And whoever declared the White House 'an institution' said a mouthful—"The home is the oldest institution on earth"—therefore by the same token, every American home is 'an institution'!

Eliminate OPA Theorists, Urges Senator George, Democrat

WASHINGTON— Immediate reorganization of the office of price administration to eliminate "social and economic theorists" from its personnel was advocated last Friday by Sen. George (D.-Ga.), who said he feared that efforts to control inflation were "approaching a breakdown".

Asserting that congressional policies were not being followed by the OPA, George cited an OPA order lowering price ceilings on steel castings to reduce what was described as excessive profits on this item.

Congress Intent Violated

"If price ceilings are to be used to cut excessive profits, then the OPA will be in a position of determining what are excessive profits without any standard for such a determiniation," George told reporters, adding, "Congress certainly had no such thought in mind when it set up the OPA to control prices."

He pointed out that congress provided for the renegotation of war contracts to elminiate excess profits,

Langer Also Voices Protest

Senator William Langer (R), of North Dakota, who also opposed the bill in the committee, has prepared a minority report assailing the measure as likely to "Hitlerize every family in America". Wheeler will file a separate dissenting report. He was out of the city when the committee approved the measure, with only 6 out of the committee's 18 members present.

By Charles H. Ingersoll

'Launch Educational Drive!' says 'Cause and Effect' Chicago, clearing house for the 'Rent for Revenue Movement', and distributor of Otto Cullman's book, 'Behold the Future!'

Editor Walker's drive concentrates on 10,000 weekly papers in the country, into each of which he would drive the 'Behold' book as a wedge or an inducement to advertise the idea of substituting rent collection for taxation —an idea which he says up to ten years ago was understood by only two persons in the whole universe!

Well, apart from such unimportant details as this, 'democracy' wishes its contemporary all success in this drive. It has often entertained such ambitious 'press agency' plans as getting its current event editorials reprinted in other papers; and with some success.

The object of these two papers is the same, which 'democracy' describes as 'using social income, or economic rent, to pay for social housekeeping, or government.

Our way of doing this is by a single tax on land values: to displace 1001 taxes on what the masses consume, which taxes double living costs, halve consumption, and buying power, and create the millions of unemployed, poverty and war.

The two 'discoverers' of the 'improved' way of saying this same formula are not named; but the editor goes further than terminology in denying such statesmen and — economists as Henry Goerge, Ricardo, Mill, Smith, and the Physiocrats.

They say land has no value; productivity does not create rent; in fact, that land does not yield rent; that rent makes high prices, however, etc.

But, in spite of all these and many more idiosyncracies or fallacies, this new cult (which I think it is in spite of the Walker disclaimer) may succeed with the layman. I do not, however, find in any books or papers listed as having rallied to this new idea in ten short years, any succinct and clear statements comparable to the sample quoted above. Nor do I believe any is possible. Explaining the improvements occupies most of the time and effort.

TIMELESS ETERNITY

By C. Leon de Aryan

We are having difficulty in perceiving and conceiving the truth because our brain-cells are saturated with notions about things that are not so. Our approach to the knowledge of the divine, as contrasted by the temporal, has therefore to take into consideration the wrong notions prevalent about things divine.

Divine thought is absolute truth, self-contained truth. Naturally, the blind cannot see, the deaf not hear, the dumb not perceive art and wisdom.

But when one is able to conceive and perceive things eternal and true in themselves, then one has stepped out of the realm of time and space into the sphere of the divine, as the first step.

The concrete occupies space and is temporal. The abstract is absolute truth and the absolute is divine.

Two and two is four, regardless of space and time, race, creed or color.

Simplicity itself. This truth is eternal and self-contained. It needs no proof.. Where the mind cannot count to four there is no perception of this truth, but where one realizes that 2 and 2 is 4, one has transcended space and time. This is divine.

Quite a let down from the superstitious expectations of mystery about the divine.

But this is merely the beginning which even a child can follow.

From mathematical eternal truths we shall proceed to divest ourselves of the shackles of time, space and causation to realize the more full nature of divinity and as we do so, we discover our own true nature, for with each step you will reply: "But I knew that all the time!"

Certainly, you knew it, we all know it because fundamentally man is divine and to be human, truly human, is to be divine; not brute nor beast.

Hits President's Order

"The same social and economic theory is expressed in the executive order limiting salaries to $25,000 after the payment of taxes, an action the president said he took under authority given him by the stabilization act," George continued. He is chairman of the senate finance committee which will be called upon to consider a proposal approved by the house ways and means committee to nullify this executive order.

George said he did not believe that Price Administrator Brown, a former colleague, would approve any such course but was being influenced by men who are "honest yet wholly impractical".

Is Newsprint Consumption Decreasing ? Gov. Wasting paper

MONTREAL— Apparent total consumption of newsprint in the United States in January amounted to 305,170 tons, 7025 tons or 2.3 percent lower than in the corresponding month in 1942 and 7.2 percent lower than in December, the Newsprint Association of Canada reports in a monthly statement.

Shipments from Canada, the association reported, represented 71 percent of total U. S. supply, compared with 72 percent in January, 1942. Shipments from U. S. mills represented 25 percent of the total as against 23 percent a year ago, while the share supplied by Newfoundland was 4 percent, compared with 5 percent last year.

The association's figures indicate newspaper advertising in 52 U. S. cities increased 5.8 percent over January, 1942. Circulation figures also showed an increase of from 2 to 5 percent increase in some daily and Sunday papers in the U. S.

U. S. Government Wasting Needed Paper

WASHINGTON— Sen. Willis (R-Ind) accused the government of "disgracefully and shamefully" multiplying its own use of paper while calling on newspapers and magazines to curtail their newsprint consumption.

Willis, ranking Republican member of the senate prniting committee, issued this statement:

"In 1941, the federal government contracted for 117,173,000 pounds of paper; and actually consumed, through the government printing office, 108,900,000 pounds—exclusive of paper consumed by the government in other parts of the country.

'Even More Startling'

"But far more startling—and for more disgraceful at a time when the very freedom of the entire American press is threatened by government curtailment—is the fact that, in the first three weeks of this year, the federal government—in Washington alone, entirely exclusive of the rest of the country—consumed 115,545,000 pounds of the 350,000,000 pounds under contract for 1943!

"If this rate were to be maintained, the federal government could be expected to consume more than two billion pounds of paper, in the government printing office in Washington alone, in 1943—or 9.6 times as much as it consumed in 1941 !

"The paper in process of being stored since January1, 1943, in five huge warehouses rented by the federal government in Baltimore, New York City, Atlanta, Chicago and San Francisco, should more than guarantee 'freedom of expression' to the new deal, even if newspapers and magazines are reduced to the size of government questionnaires. (And far more important than most of those questionnaires).

'The figures speak for themselves, disgracefully and shamefully".

Editor's Note— Well Senator, you are on the 'home front' in Washington, why don't you do something to do away with that 'disgrace and shame'?

One California Paper Bans All New Subscriptions

The New Castle Courier-Times, (Calif) afternoon daily newspaper, has announced that because of newsprint reduction it cannot, temporarily at least, accept new subscriptions. "We shall be glad to take your order and start your subscription to the paper when some present subscription is discontinued," an announcement said.

Additional Ed. Note— Write your Senator and Representative if you'd rather read newspapers than government bureaucratic questionnaires !

Calif. Income Tax Still In Effect

Who Must Make a Return

Every resident of this State shall make a return of income derived from all sources for each taxable year if during the year his status and the amount of his net income or gross income bring him within either of the following groups:

(1) Single, or married and not living with husband or wife for any part of the taxable year: If having a net income of $1,000 or more, or a gross income of $5,000 or more.

(2) Married couples living together for the entire taxable year: If each has income and the combined net income of the two is $2,500 or over, or the combined gross income is $5,000 or over. If only one has income and his net income is $2,500 or over, or his gross income is $5,000 or over, such person shall make a return.

(3) Married and living with husband or wife for only part of the taxable year: If each has income and the combined net income of the two is equal to, or in excess of, their total credits for personal exemption (computed without regard for credit as head of family), or the combined gross income is $5,000 or over. If only one has income, if his net income is equal to, or in excess of, his credit for personal exemption (computed without regard for credit as head of family), or his gross income is $5,000 or over.

Joint Returns—May be filed by husband and wife if living together at the end of the year. A joint return is permissable even though one has no gross income.

An application to the commissioner for a change in the accounting period should be made prior to the expiration of 30 days from the close of the proposed taxable year.

When and Where The Return Must Be Filed

The return should be filled with the Franchise Tax Commissioner, Sacramento, California, or at any branch office.

No earned income credit is allowable for State tax purpose. Do not confuse this fact with the allowable deduction for personal and dependent exemptions, however.

U. S. 'Morale Cases' Viewed With Alarm by Noted Liberal

WASHINGTON— Zecharoah Chafee jr., a Harvard University law professor and considered one of the outstanding liberals and authorities on civil liberties and freedom of speech, has expressed grave concern over the Justice Department's handling of its case against 33 alleged seditionists.

Chafee, Langdell professor of law at Harvard and greatly admired and respected by Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter and his Harvard "hot dogs" in the Government, has written to Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D) of Montana, saying that he is very much disturbed about the prosecutions in this case, particularly the removal of defendants thousands of miles from their homes for trial in Washington, D. C., it is understood.

Questions Prosecution

Wheeler acknowledged that he had received the letter, but declined to release it or to comment. However, it is understood that while Chafee declared his violent disagreement with statements made by defendants in the case he did not believe they were of sufficient importance to warrant prosecution under the Sedition Act of 1940.

Moreover, Chafee has declared his intention of submitting the sedition case to the American Bar Association, of which he is a member, for its investigation as to the procedure followed.

Maloney Under Fire

William Power Maloney, special Federal prosecutor, has been under heavy fire for his conduct in attempting to get the mass indictments on charges of conspiracy to undermine the morals of the Army and Navy, and the use of the prosecution to smear members of Congress and other legitimate critics of the Administration by dragging them into the proceedings.

The Washington Post, Marshall Field's PM, the Communist Daily Worker and the various pinko journals, such as the New Republic and the Nation, have participated in the smear campaign which produced such a stench that members of Congress have demanded a thorough investigation.

Removed from Case

Maloney recently was "promoted" to chief of the Justice Department's trial section to remove him from the case—with great secret relief to Maloney himself, according to his friends. A new prosceutor is to sift the evidence with a view toward bringing to trial only defendants among the 33 against whom there may be sufficient evidence to make a case.

Although the first indictments were returned last summer, the trial has ben postponed from month to month.

In the meantime the smear artists have made the most of the delay to pursue their tactics, according to critics.

Chafee has been highly critical of the Sedition Act of 1940 itself as a superfluous piece of legislation placing abusive powers in the hands of the Government. Last year the Harvard University Press published an authoritative work by him, entitled "Free Speech in the United States," in which he declared:

"We must legislate and enforce the laws against the use of force, but protect ourselves against bad thinking and speaking by the strength of argument and a confidence in American common sense and American institutions, including that most characteristic of all, which stands at the head of the Bill of Rights. freedom of thought . . .

"For Our Own Sake"

"Not for the sake of the radicals, but for our own sake, should we oppose this unprecedented legislation. whose enforcement let lose a horde of spies and informers, offical and unofficial, swarming into our private life, stirring up suspicion without end, making all attacks on Government either impotent or unsafe," Chafee wrote.

He noted that there was authority existing on the statute books to cover any serious danger of disloyalty in the Army and Navy. Any soldier or sailor who is actually persuaded by propaganda to spread some himself or disobey a superior officer or attempt to mutiny can be courtmartialed, and enticing desertion is a crime, he said.

Language Too Broad

There are ways in which the Government can expand the Sedition Act beyond the intent of Congress, Chaffee wrote.

He said that the language of the speeches or pamphlets prosecuted need not say anything about the Army or Navy, but merely consist of expressions of opinion about the conduct of defense policy; the clause requiring "intent to interfere with the loyalty" of the Army and Navy could pertain to discussion among civilians, and might even be used to imprison an unpopular author or a minister who preached a pacifist sermon; the expressions of opinion need not be specifically addressed to soldiers or sailors or to men on the eve of entering service; and the law may easily be administered in such a way as to lessen the intellectual activity of drafted men and others in service, especially officers.

"Disaffection in the armed forces is indeed dangerous, but the only sure safeguard against it is the men themselves," Chafee contended in his book. "I believe that the Army and the Navy and the great mass of our people are intensely loyal to the Government, and that one reason for this loyalty is the scope which our laws permit for freedom of discussion."

Winchell Put On Inactive List, Saved From Court-Martial

WASHINGTON— Lieut. Comdr. Walter Winchell, impresario of turgid tittle-tattle, has been retired to inactive status for inventing one scandal too many, the House Naval Affairs Committee has been informed.

The deciscion was announced at a closed session of the House Naval Affairs Committee, called to hear the Navy explain why the gossip monger had not been court-martialed for contemptuous and disrespectful utterances on the radio against Congress.

On Inactive List

"Winchell was put on the inactive list yesterday and I have no intention of recalling him to active duty," Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox told the committee.

At the same time, it was learned, Knox submitted answers to the second of two lists of questions, propounded by Representative Clare E. Hoffman (R) of Michigan, regarding the status & conduct of the column conductor, whose activities have earned him the label "gents' room journalist".

Boon to Morale of Navy

Hoffman issued a statement after the action was announced asserting "every fighting man and officer in the Navy should rejoice". He said the assurance Winchell will not be returned to active duty "will be a boon to navy morale".

"I regard the action announced by Secretary Knox as the proper and wise thing to do," said Representative Carl Vinson (D) of Georgia, committee chairman. "This closes our hearings on the Winchell matter and so far as we are concerned settles the whole controversy."

Mrs. America Meets The War

Shoe rationing has focused attention upon the unused footwear lying idle in closets of homes throughout the country these days. It is estimated that about 50,000,000 pairs of perfectly good but unused shoes fill closets or else are worn only occasinally. If you have shoes you are not using, get your wear from them and keep them in good condition. However if the shoes stored in the family closet are outgrown or for some other reason will not be worn at all, pass them along to less fortunate persons. Meantime, use your Ration Stamp No. 17 for shoes only as you need them. No need to worry for there are plenty for everyone's requirements for health and comfort. Retailers now have about 200,000,000 pairs of shoes in stock.

A pair of spectacles should cost you no more than the highest prices prevailing in March, 1942 under OPA ceilings. However, charges for eye examinations are not price controlled unless combined in the cost for spectacles. If the seller had previously made a combined charge for both the eye examination and spectacles, he should not make separate charges now.
